The Collins Aerospace Interior Cabin World Headquarters project transformed the current building renovated by Workplace Architecture + Design in 2017 into a dynamic, timeless, and inspiring branded environment that reflects the rich history, innovative spirit, and core values of Collins Aerospace. This branded environment initiative integrated elements of the company's culture, significant patents, and achievements into the architectural and interior design of the headquarters, ensuring that the space not only functions as an efficient workplace but also serves as a testament to the company's legacy and future aspirations. Workplace Architecture + Design was the lead point of contact providing full service design from project initiation through construction completion managing the project's design team while monitoring the schedule and budget.
